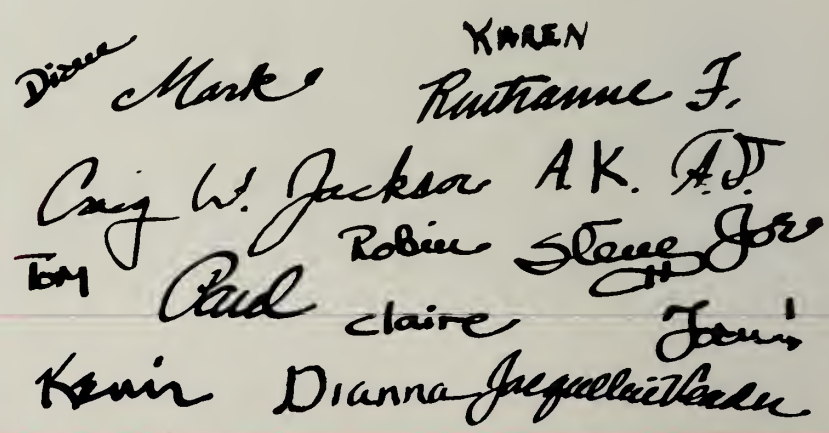
CLIPPINGS FROM THE STAFF

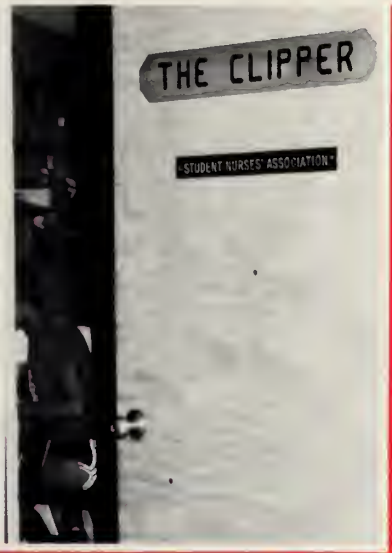
The office was the same. Located in the same place and overflowing with photographs, layout plans, scraps of copy and the ideas that had helped us put the 1981 Clipper together. It certainly looked reassuring. Then we took a closer look. The pictures were outdated. The students had become alumni, the layouts were crumpled, and all our ideas and plans like the copy were used and useless. Suddenly things didn't look quite so reassuring.

We thought then that our goal was a long, long distance from actual realization. It was. We thought then that the ideas and plans for the 1982 Clipper might be difficult to assemble. They were.

It was a year full of frustration and seemingly impossible deadlines. There never seemed to be enough time, enough space, enough money, or for that matter, enough staff. There were days when thoughts came easily, layout plans worked out perfectly and everything seemed to go right. Then there were other days when we just sat around staring with blank faces at blank pages and everything seemed to go wrong. Above all, It was a year full of hard work. We tried hard to put together a yearbook that would summarize our years at Salem State. We wanted to save some of those memories in words and pictures, for ourselves and for every member of the 1982 class.

Despite all the work, problems and frustration, we had a great deal of fun, and a lot of laughs working on the Clipper. It was a great experience and one that we'll always remember.





STEP INTO MY OFFICE . . .

Rrrring . . . "Hello Yearbook Office! Yes, Senior Portaits will be taken from the eight to the thirteenth. No Joe, we still need those fall sport shots. Yes, you may sign up in Room 221 of the College Union. Okay Joe, we are missing the cross country photos. Sorry, tickets for Pub Night are sold at the candy counter next door." "Jackie, are we still meeting at 2:00?" "Of course Cathy, that's what my appointment book says! Okay, next! Clare, the deadline was today! Oh Paul, I was looking for you. Could you develop this roll of film? . . . You want it when?!"

Rrrring . . . "Thom, I'll check on the book sales. I know that the typewriter is broken, Ruthanne. There must be one left from 1928 somewhere! Thanks Robin,. Here's another roll of film. I am sure that the faculty will appreciate these updated photos. Joan, Call Rick Spencer and remember, be persistant!! We'll have to extend the deadline, Diane. Yes, that section is impossible. Maybe Jane has an idea. Hold it, Who's going for coffee? Yes, regular . . . "How about the copy for page 14? You want it when! . . . ."

"Danny, wait a minute. We can't dedicate the entire book to World News!" "Jackie, think you can identify who's piece of artwork this is?" No, I am sorry . . . You don't like your Senior Portrait. Well, you can have it taken again . . . Diane, don't worry' I am sure that there will be be enough Senior pictures to fill the allotted space. Claire, Please may I see a rough draft of the cover by . . . You want it When?'

Rrrring . . ."Hello Tom, Yes those pictures did come in. Are you sure that you've never taken a picture before. Could have fooled me! Yes Sarah, I understand there's only one photo call for Wednesday's show. Paul, You finished it! Leon is such a great help' I understand that your a star tennis player, but I don't have any 8 x 10 glossies of you! Your group wants us to photograph a what? Okay, I'll see what my photo staff can do. What . . . You want it when?!"

Rrrring . . ."You want to work on the Senior section. Great Kevin, we could use the help. What? Bob, you mean to tell me that the car was towed and you didn't get to take a picture of it? That's okay' Yes, I do have an extra cigarette. No Mark, I'm sorry but I can't put you on the Pub Night guest list. Betsy, I promise I'll call Yearbook Associates and get you those sign-up sheets. Are those letters sent out . . . You want it when?!"

Rrrring . . . "I am sorry but I haven't any idea why you never received your 1979 yearbook. Going to lunch! Sounds great. I could use a break' Could I have my Senior Portrait done elsewhere? Cathy, I'm sorry I'm late but I lost my appointment book. I might as well have been lost myself. Yes, the dedication . . . You want it when?! . . ."

Rrrring . . ."Oh, Helen . . . Good. Hanging in there. We are working on the dedication, but it's moving kind of slow. Yes, I'll talk to Tom about those crazy bills. Oh, by the way, when will I get to see your photographs? Great, I can hardly wait . . . You want me to sign a P.O. Okay, I'll be up in a while. By the way, a photographer is on his way up to pick up some film. Thanks. What? Another proposal? You want it when?!"

Rrrring . . ."Hi Tom. Yes, you've told me. I understand that the first deadline is in two weeks. Have I ever let you down before? Also, the company keeps sending me bills for a High School yearbook and also a freshman register. When will the accounting office straighten that mess out? I know it's expensive, but it will work. Yearbooks cost money. Are you sure that the company can print page eight and nine properly? One question Tom, when is the final deadline again? You want it when?"

Rrrring . . ."I can't believe it's finished' But . . . But why don't you tell me? When will it arrive? But I want it NOW"

Such is the plight of a Yearbook editor. To all the people mentioned above, "Thanks". I enjoyed working with you! I hope you appreciate this yearbook. As you can tell, we worked hard! I suppose some will cherish the book. It will become their own time capsule and to others, it may be a connection of what Salem State was to them.

Thank you,
Jackie Lweogue

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE AT SALEM MASSACHUSETTS

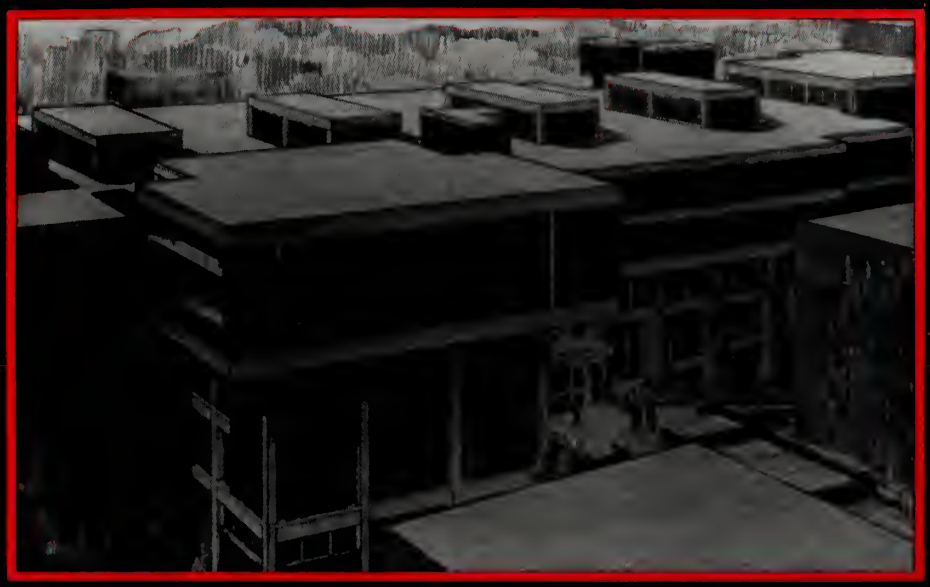
Salem State College as we now know it has grown a great deal in its 128 year history. It first opened in 1854 as the State Normal School at Salem in the Old Registry of Deeds at the corner of Broad Street and Summer Street.

In 1896 the school moved to its present address, consisting of one building then known as the Academic Building.

In 1913 the Training School was built and in 1935 it was renamed the Horace Mann Training School.

At this time, building was halted and all attention was focused on the academic and extra-cirricular activities of the students.



In 1932 the formal name of the college was changed to State Teachers College at Salem and remained relatively unchanged until 1954. At this time the name of the college was again changed to State College at Salem and in 1955 the campus began to take the shape of its present stature. In this year, a multipurpose structure was built, housing administrative offices, a cafeteria, an auditorium, a library and a gym.

In 1964 the Business Education Arts and Science Building was erected and in 1966 the two dormitories, the Student Union and the Bell Tower were added to the campus. In 1969 the Academic Building was dedicated to Edward A. Sullivan and thus renamed.

During the early seventies the college acquired many buildings including South Campus, which opened in 1973, along with the Alumni House, the Presidents home and the Education House. In 1974 the library was added to the Main Campus and the final architectural addition was added in 1976. This culminated in the opening of the O'Keefe Sports Complex. In 1977 the Business Education Arts and Science Building was dedicated to Frederick A. Meier.

Within the time we have been here, we have seen the beautification of the college grounds and have realized its potential for growth.

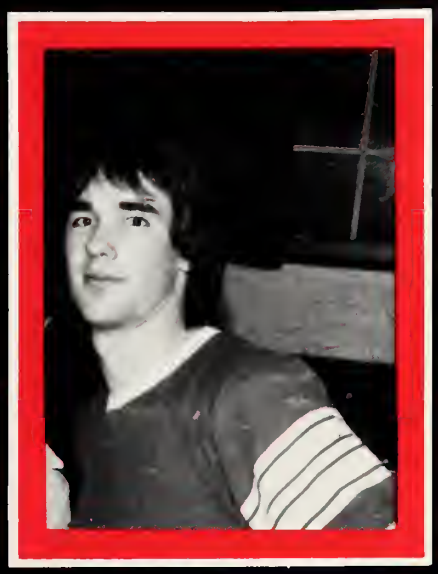
CAMPARI

In 1982, over eight hundred students will graduate from Salem State College. We have spent four years in classes, passed each other in the halls and on the campus. We have stood in lines together in the Registrar's Office, bookstore and cafeteria, wrapped in an uneasy sense of unity. Yet still, many of us don't know each other.

It's not really surprising. With hundreds of students attending Salem State, most of us pass through without ever knowing a lot of our own classmates. But did you ever wonder about some of those people? The people you saw every day but never really met . . . Maybe now you can learn a little bit about some of those . . . "Faces in the Crowd.".



Our college beginning focused around one event that will remain a common bond between us for the rest of our lifetime. It is shared with us by others whom we may never come to know personally, as well as those who helped us to create those special years. At some time in our life we all chose to attend Salem State College.

Our reasons, unlike our choice, were varied. Was it close to home? Far away from home? Did the career programs in nursing, business, theater . . . impress you? For the opportunities available, could you find anything with a more reasonable cost? Did a high school sports coach put the idea into your head? Do you really know why you came here? These are a few of the "FACES IN THE CROWD" that are happy to be here!

ACTION

SENIOR REMEMBERANCE

Well, here it is at last! Second semester of my Senior year at Salem State College . . . the beginning of the end, or the beginning of the beginning, it depends on your point of view. I'd like to say that it's the beginning for me, but before I can really consider beginning anything, I have to pay off a few debts. Living in the dubious luxury of off-campus accomadations while pursuing a college degree, I find that I owe considerable amounts of money to my parents, the school and my landlord, not to mention the gas company, the oil company, Ma Bell and the federal government! Still, it was worth it.

The years certainly cost me quite a bit, but what I gained; Friends, new experiences and a wealth of knowledge, balanced everything out. It wasn't all fun and games. There were problems; academic, personal and financial. But I learned to deal with them on my own and I gained a sense of responsibility at the same time. These are the important lessons that I learned at Salem State. Well, that's about all I have time for. I still have a semester to get through, but next time you hear from me, I'll be a graduate of Salem State College . . .

SENIORS

Over the years, we have seen Salem State grow; and we have grown with it. The class of "1982" is the largest graduating class thus far from Salem State College. We have all worked very hard through our 4, 5, and in some cases, 6 years here. It involved a lot of late late nights, frustrations, headaches, and parties. As we neared our senior year, we began to get apprehensive about the "Big World" out there. Congratulations, you made it! We are ready to conquer whatever is out there. I wish each and every one of you the very best of luck.

Thanks,

Faces In The Crowd

Joe Feeney
Home: South Boston, Ma
Major:

Student Government Executive Vice President, 1981-82. Member: Rules Committiee and the Food Service Committee Joe is also a Resident Advisor in Bowditch Hall.

Joe is highly noted for his work with SGA. In the office Joe likes the desks kept clean and the member to have their free time schedule turned in and filed. Two projects which Joe has worked on this year have been repairs of the library's typewriter for student use and also the schedule of the South Campus Express. Joe can be seen frequently with J.D!

Dr. Claire Keyes
Home: Marblehead, Ma.
English Professor

Dr. Keyes is responsible for many publication's from the college. Her position as advisor to both the Arts Calander and Soundings East have helped the students with success of the printing in both magazines. This past June, Dr. Keyes directed the Eastern Writer's Conference which was a huge success. Guest speaker and panelists did include Novelist E.L. Doctorow; poet Denise Levertov; biographer, critic and poet Paul Mariani; Nonfiction writers Caryl Rivers, Andrew H. Merton and Carol Peacock; editors and publishers Peter Davison, George Murphy and Tom Hart. Dr. Keyes has also brought poetry to life here at SSC by bringing in such guest speakers as Adrienne Rich. Professor Robert Arnold

Professor Arnold has been with Salem State College since the summer of 1979. At that time he inaugurated a Cartography Concentration within the Geography Department. While serving the College Community Professor Arnold has also conducted an annual Institute of Cartography for eight weeks each summer. Professor Arnold is involved with the students basically on individual terms. Professor Arnold spends most of his time making contacts for internships and securing jobs for students. His results have been outstanding. Professor Arnold has had thirteen students hired by the Defense Mapping Agency.

Professor Arnold has also shown terrific support for student events in May of 1980 he took part in the 125th Anniversary Road Race to the Salem Willows.

LIVING

To live the life of a Salem State College student is for most a four year experience, but for others . . . . The life style is at all times encompassing! The memories will live long after the fact. The pace of the student action is rugged and certainly takes stamina. The long hours of study, partying, talking, dating, and growing are all carried out at a rapid pace. The college experience will be one we all fondly recall.

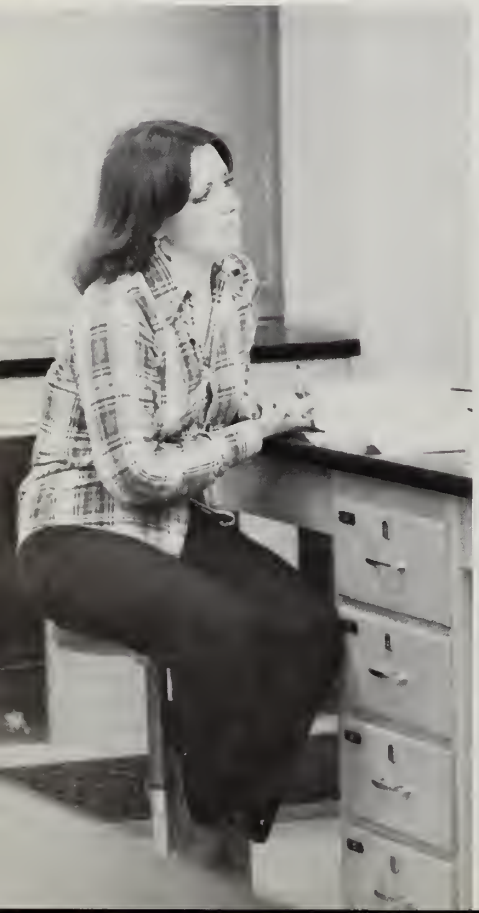
. . . and my arm flew out to silence the alarm. I craved the thought of staying in bed. Just 10 more luxurious minutes in bed.

Then my thoughts lurched towards my Biology quiz and the English paper that was due. I grudgingly crawled out of bed to start another day.

I shuffled, showered and dressed speeding off without breakfast once again. My thoughts moved quickly towards the race of finding a parking space.

Upon arrival I noticed that everyone was in just as much of a hurry as I was, rushing around to get everything together.

HOME IS 25 MINUTES AWAY . . .



7:00 a.m. Oh boy, the guy on the radio says that the traffic is slow going and the DPW crews are still clearing the roads. It figures, it always turns out to be my turn to drive the car pool the day after a snow storm. I'll never find a parking space.

7:45 a.m. (leaving the house) I hope I'll have plenty of time to get to school and find a parking space. I have to pick Maria up first. What do you mean I have to pick Craig up, Maria he is 7 miles out of the way in Nahant and his aftershave stinks. I could kill you! You know that there will be six of us in this small Vega. Well, on to pick up Gina and Rich at least they are always on time.

By the time I reached Laura's house we were all ready 10 minutes behind schedule and much to my surprise Laura's Earth Science Project was due that day. Laura what is it? "It's a replica of Mount St. Helen after its first eruption." "Well, we will have to tie it to the roof."

I sure hope Craig is ready we are all ready 20 minutes late.

Even though the roads were icy and the heater barely worked, we made it over to Nahant, Mt. St. Helen et al. Craig had to sit on Rich's and Gina's lap. I really had thought I'd have time to go over my notes now I just hope I make it to class. Oh boy, Mt. St. Helen just fell of the roof. Poor Laura what else can go wrong.

8:15 a.m. Hi Craig! "Listen Besty I just talked to Rich his car will not start I told him we would pick him up! I hope you don't mind!"

SHARING LIFE BETWEEN THIN WALLS . . .

Could you imagine a life of dorm living? What would come to mind? The endless ring of music coming from all directions, the Friday night locked out of the room syndrome, finding your wet laundry on top of the washing machine for the third week in a row, the endless struggle to get at the pay phone.

Oh, but the long hours spent in conversation with the room mate, the hours spent socializing and partying, the kabbitzing with the gang during General Hospital, the addictions formed to Tab and coffee . . .

A DAY IN THE LIFE . . .

It's inevitable. After a year commuting from home and a year or more in the dorm, many students finally lean towards what seems to be the perfect solution . . .

Every semester, hundreds of optimistic college students tired of the daily commute, bored with dorm life, opt for a freer, easier lifestyle. With high hopes and independent spirits, they team up with one or more of their friends and rent an apartment. These students, newly impoverished by the stark realities of apartment life, come to share many common experiences. For example, let's take a typical day . . .

7:00 a.m. The day begins. Usually, only one person in every apartment actually has to get up at this ungodly hour, but one person up at 7:00 a.m. in a severely overcrowded apartment means that all members of the household begin to regard this hour as the starting point of the day.

7:30 a.m. At this time, all roommates make a beeline for the shower, and at least a small ration of the limited hot water supply. In the early days of apartment life, most roommates are scrupulously polite and generous to each other, however the honeymoon period ends quickly. With incredible swiftness, otherwise civilized roommates resort to slyness and cunning in order to make it to the shower one step ahead of the rest. Many a strong friendship has ended beneath the shadow of an empty hot water tank.

9:00 a.m. The morning rush is over. The skeletal remains of a makeshift breakfast litters the kitchen. The roommates without cars have begged rides from their more fortunate peers and the house is relatively quiet. At various times during the day, roommates come and go rarely for the same reasons, never for very long, and always missing each other by just moments.

3:00 p.m. Most classes are over for the day, and roommates gather to watch soaps, relax and discuss common goals and problems, such as, who can afford to pay rent this month, what ever happened to the last electric bill and who called Idaho twice last month.

6:00 p.m. It is evening and roommates leave the dubious relaxation of home to depart for parts unknown, or parts known only too well, like the library, a night course or a place of employment. This ends an average day for the apartment crowd. Some days are better than others, but like anything else in life, it's just not all that it's cracked up to be.

Junior Year Nursing: An Outsider's Observation

If Freshman year is the initiation and Sophomore year is the middle ground, then Junior year must be considered as the pivotal point of college. This theory becomes especially true for those mysterious uniform-garbed students of the Salem State School of Nursing. Except for the first few nerve-wracked moments of wondering if they will ever be allowed formally into the nursing program, these students go to classes and generally blend in quite well with the rest of the college community. However in Junior year, a startling change occurs. These people, dressed in the yellow and white uniforms of the Salem Nursing Student, seem to undergo a strange metamorphosis. After having roomed with two Nursing majors during this tense period in their lives, I decided to list for posterity, some of the bizarre topics of conversation that became an everyday part of their lives . . . and mine.

Aside from the major elements of Nursing, such as, where the vital organs are located, Nursing students must deal with the less significant details of their chosen profession. Conversations seem to center largely on these rather petty problems.

The Uniform: A major problem for the Nursing student. Discussions usually center around a few direct questions, Does it fit? Is it clean? Did it shrink?

The Accessories: White nylons, white shoes and a stethoscope. Nursing majors are constantly polishing their shoes and "running" or running out of white nylons. In my own personal experience with stethoscopes, there were always at least a hundred lying around when someone was looking for a pencil, but absolutely none to be found when one was looking for a stethoscope.

The Cap: an imposing piece of headgear worn with pride. This pride soon turns to all consuming hatred and finally the cap is banished forever to its unique little plastic carrying case that doubles as a pocketbook, a lunchpail and/or a wastebasket.

The most frightening episode of the Junior Nursing Student is the plunge into the real world of the hospital. This is known as . . .

Clinical: An important part of Junior Nursing curriculum, involving extremely early mornings, an incredibly extensive carpool system and real-live patients. Nursing students never feel quite ready for Clinical but by the second or third rotation, they are as much at home in the hospital as they are in the lecture hall.

Junior year is a full year for the average Nursing Student. It's a year full of car-plans and drug cards, seminars and posted grades. As an outsider, I've learned to have a great deal of respect for Nursing Students and for the hardships they suffer through in their Junior Year.

BACK TO THE GRIND . . .

. . . It came real slow at first but, ever so gradually I was becoming acclimated to the rigors of another year. Mentally, I was still between here and the beach. After encountering my friends, a few classes, lunch in the commons, and attending a few parties my thoughts tuned in and I was ready to face another year.

THE MID-WINTER BLUES . . .

seemed endless. The ski trip some looked to as an escape was cancelled and, the snow plow side swiped your car, spending a week at home over Christmas break proved trying and your grades where not what you had anticipated but, a thought of that trip to Florida and a summer tan kept you going. The few day trips up north were enjoyable but mostly you enjoyed the break from classes and spending time with good friends.

Well we made it to FLA, you know 28 hours of straight driving, 12 people to a hotel room, continuous Happy Hours, and absolutely no sleep. Those 6 cloudy days on the beach went fast but, the trip home lasted forever seeing that the transmission on the car blew. Once back to the grind the talk focused on Graduation and the anticipation of Senior Week. We passed the hours at Devereaux Beach or relaxing at the Wharf. Montreal Express was on and others took advantage of the business trip to New York. For most the Spring passed quickly and finals came along as we understood that another semester was coming to an end.

CLUBS

For the past five months I have hounded all the groups and clubs on campus with memos, phone calls, and person to person contact. It was a very frustrating task due to the lack of cooperation, however it was accomplished. The following pages are the result of the work and effort put into this job. I would like to thank all of the groups and clubs who cooperated with me. Also a thankyou to Jackie Levesque who helped me alot and put up with my lack of knowledge of layouts, copysheets, cropping, etc. Finally a special thanks to Thom Pyne who listened and put up with my complaining when things weren't going right.

Thanks to all,

Dianna Modugno

Program Council

The Program Council of the Campus Center develops, organizes and implements programs which will serve the cultural, Body and the College Community, to aid in the development of student leaders and provide opportunities for students to develop skills in human relations.

The Program Council is an organization totally run by and for the students. It is the major programmer of all activities on campus. It offers students an ideal chance to gain academic and social fulfillment that no student should do without. Committees under the jurisdiction of the Program Council(s) are: Class Social Committees, Commencement, Senior Week, Senior Class, Day Programming, Film, Lecture and Forum, Performing Arts, Recreation, Student Ad, Video Tape, Arts and Crafts, Arts Festival, Clipper, New Concepts, Pub Night, Scarborough Fair, and Winfisky Art Gallery.

Theatre

The Salem State Theatre is the official play producing organization at SSC. Administered by the Department of Theatre and Speech Communication in connection with its B.A. program in Theatre Arts.

The 1981-82 year began with "Vanities" by Jack Heifner. The show marked newcomer Joel Feldman's appearance in the Theatre Dept. He directed the piece to rave reviews. A unique aspect of the show was the set itself-designed by senior, Maureen Sohl. The next production "Of Mice and Men" opened in early November in the Mainstage Auditorium. David George directed the play to artistic success. Actor Glenn Dube was nominated for the Irene Ryan Acting Award. His portrayal of "Lenny" stunned all. This award acknowledges outstanding acting abilities displayed by students in plays submitted to be judged. Chris Parsons who portrayed "George" was nominated as stand-in.

In December a student written dramatic play, "Friends," opened in the Callan Studio. A workshop piece, "Friends" was an all student production. Rick Mansfield wrote and acted in the piece and Kathy Norris directed it. Early February marked the opening of "Leading Ladies". A musical revue written by junior, Dana LeBrun, the show was another all student production. "Suddenly Last Summer" opened Feb. 26th on the Main-stage and was directed by Tom Luddy. The play explored the deep psychological facets of the characters created by Tennessee Williams.

"What the Butler Saw" by Joe Orton opened in mid April. David George directed this outrageously sexy comedy. "Series III" a series of three separate one act plays followed quickly in early May. Each play was directed by a theatre major senior.

There are now over one hundred theatre majors and minors in the Theatre Arts Program. The SSC Theatre Executive Board represents the student body. The officers numbering eleven are elected into office by their peers. Theatre Arts Program Chairperson: Patricia Zaido Artistic Director: David George Technical director: Whitney "Whizz" White SST President: Katharine Norris

Mass P.I.R.G.

Salem State PIRG is one of twelve campus chapters of MASS PIRG (Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group); a student-run, non-profit, non-partisan organization founded in 1972 to promote the general welfare of the citizens of Mass. at the local, state and national levels. MASS PIRG students work with a professional staff to research social problems and public policies, publish public interest reports, conduct community education drives, organize citizen action, and advocate on behalf of the interests of the general public.

This year the SSC PIRG students along with PIRG students from across the state, waged a major grassroots campaign which resulted in the passage of the Bottle Bill. A nine year effort to pass this crucial anti-litter measure ended in a stunning victory in November 1981.

SSC PIRG's Tenants Rights project, co-ordinated by Gianna Richards, has been organized so that students can identify the major problems in housing and pursue a course of action to solve these problems. Also the SSC PIRG Hazardous Waste Group has been identifying and documenting some of the major hazardous waste problems in the Salem area. By meeting with public officials, environmental groups and building community support, the group is working to enforce the state's regulations on hazardous waste and educate North Shore citizens as to the potential dangers of indiscriminate toxic dumping by local industry.

Executive Members:
Representative to MASS PIRG Board of Directors: Emily Bernheim Dennis Morse
Chairperson SSC PIRG: Terry Kunkel
Treasurer SSC PIRG: Karen Whippen
Media Co-ordinator SSC PIRG: Susan McGinn
Staff

SLED

S.L.E.D., is the Sound and Light Engineering Department of the College Union. Any function that requires special sound systems, theatrical lighting, or movie projections in the Union is handled by the dedicated SLED crew.

S.L.E.D. this year was brought to you by Peter Munro, Peter Stern, Joe Walker, and Erin Dwyer.

LOG

The LOG is the official newspaper of SSC. It is published weekly and is financed by the SGA and revenues from advertising. The newspaper is distributed free on campus. All students are welcome to submit an article for publication. The LOG is a valuable aid in establishing and maintaining an atmosphere of free and responsible discussion and of intellectual explration on campus. It is a means of bringing community concerns to the attention of the college, the institutional authorities, and the community at large. It is also a means of formulating opinions on various issues within the college campus and the community.

Highlighting the 1981-82 year were the constant breakdown of the machinary. Another highlight for the LOG was their loss in football to the SGA.

Memories
Four years have come and gone
sharing work with one another,
We formed a close relationship
Now it's time to travel on.

You've helped us across a threshold and opened up a door,
We gratefully acknowledge all you've given us and more.

Your encouragement and patience deserves our greatest praise
We thank you for the memories
we'll carry on our ways.

Early Music Ensemble

The SSC Early Music Ensemble recreates historical atmosphere through song, dance, and playing authentic instruments of the past. The group performs in costumes created to depict the century, with the idea of "a day at court". The main objective is to give the group and audience an idea of the past in music and style.

During the 1981-82 year the Early Music Ensemble had three very successful performances. In the fall of 1981 there was a performance of eighteenth century song, dance, and instrumental music. In the spring of 1982 there were two performances. The first was a sixteenth century production of SSC and they then traveled to Hammond Castle and performed another sixteenth century production.

The 1981 Fall Tennis campaign was a most successful one at Salem State College as the women went undefeated in MASCAC play and won the league title. A poor Spring record reflects the loss of the team's No. 1 singles player for the season. Only one senior will graduate, however, which projects a strong team this fall.

Individual Honors: Roni Raczkowski, who played No. 1 singles in the Fall, was named the MASCAC All-Conference Tennis Team.

Individual Honors: Paul Gardner was named to the MASCAC all-conference team in the fall.

The 1981-82 men's tennis campaign was not as disappointing as its overall record might indicate. Two tight losses to Mass. Maritime and Westfield at the end of the fall season made the difference between possibly taking second place in the MASCAC and finishing in a tie for third as SSC did in '81. Three losses by a total of three points in the middle of the spring season also made the difference between a very successful 9-3 season and the 6-6 record SSC compiled. This was only the third time in 11 years that SSC has not won the MASCAC title. Coach Longley's career record now stands at 180-38.

Women's Volleyball had numerous early season injuries but, in spite of this fact still remained persistant throughout Fall play. In tournament play the team placed an overall second in the SSC Invitational and also in the MASCAC Division II Tournament. Individual Honors: Sharon Turcotte, Dawn Barcellona and Liz Sheridan, were all named to the MASCAC All-Conference team.

As always, the 1981-1982 Academic year was also a very successful golf year at SSC. The fall season was highlighted by a first place finish in the ECAC qualifying Tournament and second at Bowdoin and the MASCAC. The Spring Campaign saw SSC compile a 10-3 dual meet record and qualify for its 14th straight appearance at the National Championships in Springfield, Ohio.

Individual Honors: Paul Montecalvo was named to the MASCAC All Conference team.

A successful Field Hockey season was marred slightly by SSC's inability to successfully defend its Mass. State College Athletic Conference title. Two ties were the only blemishes on the league record, but the team finished second to Westfield by one point in the final standing. The season was highlighted by a strong showing in the MAIAW tournament, finishing second to Tufts, but ended on a disappointing note when the team narrowly missed being selected to play in the first ever NCAA Field Hockey Championship Tourney. It was nonetheless a very productive season-for coach Mary Ellen McGee, whose career record now stands at 21-8-6.

Individual Honors: Nesta Karner, Lee Seraphin and Karen Dyke were all selected to the MASCAC All-Conference team.

On the basis of NCAA participation and outside recognition, the 1981-82 basketball season was one of the most successful ever at Salem State. The team won its third straight Mass. State College Athletic Conference title and hosted its first-ever NCAA Division III Northeast Regional Tournament, losing in the finals. The 20-8 final record represented the second straight year SSC had won 20 or more games. Also highlighting the season was a 10 game win streak that sealed the MASCAC title and the championship of the Pepsi Invitational against two Division II teams at Merrimack College in December.

Individual Honors: Ken Kocher was selected to the New England Basketball Coaches, The ECAC and the UPI all-New England Teams. Wayne Hansom and Ken Kocher were named to the MASCAC all-conference team, with Hanscom taking the league MVP award. Coach Joe Lavacchia was named Division III Coach of the Year in New England.

An injury to the top returning gymnast and early-season illness and minor injuries resulted in a poor start for the 1982 gymnastic team. Once the squad become heathly, however, the scores climbed steadily, jumping a very impressive total of 23.6 points from the first meet to the last. The team qualified for the NCAA Div. II and III Northeast Regional meet, and finished fourth overall, second among Div. III teams.

First year coach Bill O'Neill piloted the 1981-82 hockey team to its sixth straight appearance in the ECAC Div. II East playoffs. A slow start and a four-game losing streak on the road late in the season forced SSC to win four of its last five and qualify for the ECAC's.

Individual Honors: Rob Buckley and Ward Gleason were named to the MASCAC all-conference team. Bob Buckley and Charlie Barbour recieved ECAC second-team all-New England honors.

CAPSULE: As far as overall record goes, the 1981-82 swimming season was not a successful one, as the team's record dropped from 3-6 a year ago to 1-10. However, the close scores in some of the meets and the fact that several school records were set indicate that Salem State's times are getting more competitive and that improvement was made in some areas.

CAPSULE: First-year coach Tim Shea took the same personnel that finished 10-12 a year ago and led them to a 16-11 record against a much tougher schedule in 1981-82. Salem State tied for the MASCAC's automatic playoff berth with Boston State, but lost their shot at appearing in the first-ever NCAA women's basketball championship in a special playoff. The women still earned a berth in the MAIAW Tournament, losing in the first round. A 10-2 MASCAC record highlighted the deason.

INDIVIDUAL HONORS: Sue Richard and Alison Dailey were named to the MASCAC all-conference team.

Don Thompson finished second overall competing individually at the Albany Invitational, and also became the first SSC runner ever to break the 25- minute mark (24:52) on Franklin Park's 5-mile course at the New England Championships.

Winter: Competing informally but representing Salem State, Dave Lavallee, Dave Richard, Charlie Jones and Don Thompson broke a meet record at the Division III New England Indoor Championships with a school record of 10:19.82 in the distance Medley relay. They finished to New England record holder Williams College by .66 seconds.

Spring: SSC was unable to fiels a complete spring team to compete in team competitions for team honors, but two individuals produced noteworthy accomplishments. Dave Richards finished 2ND in the Eastern Championships and 4TH in the Div. III New England Championships in the 800-meters, setting a school record of 1:53.59. Brian Hirschfeld finished sixth in the triple jump at the Div. III New England.

Overall a third place finish at the MASCAC cross country meet with the the best point total in SSC's history. The two school records during the winter helped add to another successful year for coach Dave Dunsky.

Individual Honors: Dave Lavalle, Don Thompson, Dave Richard, Charlie Jones and Brian Hirschfeld all recieved all-New England track honors. Dave Lavallee and Don Thompson were also named to the MASCAC all conference cross country team.

PORTFOLIO

The pages that follow contain the finest art work, whether it be a painting, photograph, or print, done at Salem State. The art works attract many majors other than art. Take time looking and try to appreciate the time and knowledge that went into each and every piece. You may not like all the works. Art is a visual medium, and lets face it, everybody has their own perception. Therefore each artist tries to convey to the viewer what he/she is seeing. I hope that you enjoy this section.

This portfolio is done each year so that student talent is not forgotten.

DEDICATION

Helen Watson Felt

To know Helen Watson-Felt is accomplished by making the trip to her second floor office in the Union. Her office is a beehive of activity, students massing to consult with her, the phones singing continuously, and an occasional operatic voice filling the room.

Once seated within approximately 14 inches of Helen, you will receive her undivided attention which for most would be impossible given the volume of activity in the room. Her concern is real, her energy and enthusiasm for developing a solution or providing an answer is tangible and if the remedy isn't within reach, she will research your dilemma thoroughly.

For the many who have encountered or worked along side Helen, the experience will always remain a vivid memory.

Helen, thank you for giving so much of yourself to all of us.

Dr. Robert Caruso

Dr. Robert G. Caruso, known to all of us as Bob, is an individual whom the students all greatly admire and respect. During his time at SSC he has made many outstanding contributions. He has been directly responsible for the publication of many student hand books and guides. He has revised the Orientation program for incoming Freshmen and transfer students by making the experience a non intimidating yet informative experience. He has served on numerous college committees and is currently the chairperson of the Student Affairs Committee, Orientation Committee and the Food Service Committee.

Importantly, he is a dedicated professional who truly cares about the quality of campus life and who deeply cares about the students. He is a sincere and understanding human being who is ever ready to come to the aid of the needs of the Salem State student.
